SOLDIERS' PENSIONS DISCUSSED IN HOUSE—HON. F. OLIVER POINTED TO CASES OF UNFAIR TREATMENT

being should be done to work out an equitable system—premises indicated. Coming Increase in Scale Would Be Confined to Privates and Probably Non-Commissioned Officers.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 19.—The com- | accomplish as much as possible now.
Mr. Ninkie: "It never occurred to

M. W. Kyte favored reduction in the difference between the pension granted to a commissioned officer and a private. Commissioned officers, he said, generally came from families with some means and were not dependent so much on the pension as the ductive of a lengthy debate and a renewal of the promise of the government that the whole matter would be made the subject of review and action at the next session of the assembly, meanwhile there will be increase on a percentage basis.

Some anomalies in soldiers' pensions were indicated in the course of discussion; for instance, there was a claim of unfairness that a man with a ten per cent. disability should be paid off with a gratuity of $100, while the man with a 20 per cent. disability would be paid $200, and probably to non-commissioned officers. In this way the suggestions of Mr. Kyte would be set to some extent.

Enlistment Hardship

Hon. Frank Oliver drew attention to a matter of which he said might not ability to get $3.50 a month for life. Both sides of the house it was recognized that everything possible should be done to procure an adequate system. Mr. Robert Foran stated that the coming increase in pensionable scale would be confined to enlisted and non-commissioned officers speaking, come under the subject of pensions, but which was nevertheless very important, especially in view of the new Military Service Act. This was the matter of compensating men enlisted under the new act who sustained financial loss through such enlistment. For instance, a man might privates and privates-in-the-counters officers. This meets the criticism of too much difference between pensions of men in the ranks and commissioned officer.

Before adjournment the house adopted a motion refusing to accept the late amendment to the judges' act reference was made to the war election bill. Hon. J. D. Reid remarked that if the debate on the late's amendment is not concluded Thursday prorogation could not take place until Friday.

When the house was in committee on supply Hon. Frank Oliver urged increase in the pension of soldiers met the increased cost of living. Hon. Mr. Reid repeated the statement already made by Premier Borden that the question of an increase in

Mr. Fred Pardee recommended a system of cheap insurance such as has been established in the United States, the government paying a part of the cost.

Mr. George Foster said there is now in the United States congress a dealing with pensions. This bill did afford parliament valuable information in dealing with the matter.
Col. J. A. Currie paid a warm tribute being disbursed not by an act of parliament but by order in council. It was a simple matter to meet new cases which might arise.
Dr. Reid declared that the government would do what it could to amend the order in council, but where the

Telling Gratuities
Hon. Frank Oliver could not agree

Colonel Currie in his eulogy of work of the pensions board. He asserted that in many cases men who suffered permanent injuries were paid off with trifling gratuities. This was the fault of the board. When a man sustained a disability which person. Dr. Reid said that cases of this kind were not always the fault of the leader or the opposition as to the appointment of the commissioners, which the premier had never done. He had no fault to find with the commission, but said it was a most regrettable thing that it had not been formed according to the understanding. It was, on unfortunate thing.

Dr. Reid declared that the reason why a bill had not been submitted to this parliament this session was that it was not possible to do so. Most im-

Additional Compensation
B. Morphy was of the opinion men who were given the gratuity the settlement of a 20 per cent bill should not be precluded from applying for additional compensation later on.
C. S. Middlebro thought it unfair a man who had suffered 10 per cent disability should be paid off with gratuity of $100, while a man with 20 per cent disability could secure pension of $2.50 a month for life. Also emphasized the necessity for giving a careful medical examination to all vets. The amendment was to raise a force of 100,000 men. Last year, he said, $1,500 to train and equip one soldier. If men who were actually unfit were enlisted the army loses $1,500 and in addition the man was entitled to a pension later

Suggests Commission
F. Nickle suggested that the item be passed and that a strong commission be appointed at the next session to consider the whole matter of pensions.
Hon. Frank Oliver remarked: that, under the backing of the military

The floor of the bridge and the men were able to announce that a few hours of uninterrupted work were required to put in place, completing the structural part of bridge. The span is now 140 feet above the stream at low tide and 126 feet above the water at high tide. Those trained civil engineers, and though the rainfall was very heavy while it lasted, the span rode through the storm with hardly a tremor. Tonight all was peaceful again and prospects for a successful completion of the bridge tomorrow were bright.

Women's Golf Tournament Was Popular and Social Success

"More men" cut a very insignificant figure on the municipal golf links yesterday. It was estimated to play when and where he could and had to possess some skill in the game.

Experts studied the line of their putts in the rough, quite oblivious of the fact that the women would have the field "play through" but were obliged to put up with the men's play.

For the ladies open tournament was the first of the season. It was a thoroughly successful event from every point of view.

In the first place, there were some 100 ladies in entries and nearly all the entrants played and turned in card.

The second success of the ladies' golf was played. The course was in A1 condition and the handicapping made the results very even.

The contest was at a most play once around the course and greenskeeper Langdon based the handicaps on a basis of 10 for the round.

The first prize, a pretty cup, was won by Mrs. A. Skatke, who did the same holes in 18 as with a handicap of 8, achieved a net of 45.

Mrs. Skatke was a strong player, was very fair and, in good with her iron and with a little more practice in putting, she would be a match for any player.

Her partner, Mrs. Skatke, won even 30 net. Mrs. Skatke and Mrs. Skatke were the winners.

The afternoon tea was given at the clubhouse by the ladies of the Edmonton Chapter of the I. O. E.
